

Spot of Color Announces Grand Opening

You scream, I scream, We all scream for Art Supplies and a protected Environment

Abingdon, VA: Spot of Color located at 333 W Main St in Abingdon announces on Wednesday, February 26th, that their grand opening will take place on March 19th. Spot of Color is a new fine arts supply retail store with an emphasis in eco friendly art/craft supplies and education. A class calendar and class registrations will be released by Monday March 2nd. Business hours will be 10:00 am to 6:00 pm seven days a week. Classes will take place during business hours and between 6:00 pm – 10:00 pm. An assortment of local artists has been recruited as teachers and several other local artists will have their work on display and for sale in store.

The owner, Hana Eichin, last worked for Barter Theatre as a scenic designer for 3 years and a scenic artist for 2 years. “Barter is the reason I moved to Abingdon; but the small town charm and the beautiful landscape is why I am staying.” comments Eichin, “The arts scene is huge in Abingdon and it was shocking to me that we didn’t have a local or even semi-local art supply store when I first moved here in 2013. I will admit that I have a small obsession with art supplies and the exciting potential they hold once put into the hands of an artist. This is among many of the reasons I decided to open an art supplies store.” Along with her obsession of art supplies is a self dedication to taking care of the environment. Eichin is in the process of limiting her waste creation in her personal life and hopes to carry that over into her store. Many of the products offered in the store will be selected for their environmentally friendly properties and low carbon footprint manufacturing.

Over the next few weeks be ready for exciting announcements and sneak previews as to what treasures you will be able to find at Spot of Color.
